

LAMS Report
July, 2007

The LAMS executive board met in February to begin work on planning for programming for the Fall NCLA conference. Members have been in contact with potential presenters and have finalized the following programs: a preconference on strategic planning using The Balanced Scorecard process, and general conference programs on the competitive environment facing libraries today and on managing multiple generations in the workplace.

Rebecca Moore is in charge of the LAMS table and is working on gathering materials for a display that will “tell the LAMS story.”
